Sue & Lee Pearl visiting Florence

'David' is a masterpiece of Italian Renaissance sculpture, it took Michelangelo three years to create, 1501-1504. During World War II, David, along with Michelangelo's other sculptures in the Accademia, was packed in sand and entombed in brick to protect it from being damaged.

The Balboa Island Improvement Association has a new domain name "BIIA.org". Our Not For Profit designation registered with the California Secretary of State remains the same and, our new service mark is registered as well. Now, you can access our web site by typing BIIA.org or balboaislandnb.org. Just try it on your own. All of this was made possible with a gift from an anonymous doner that would rather remain unknown, they just appreciate all the BIIA does for our little Island(s) in the Pacific...A BIG THANK YOU!

It is hard to believe that Summer is over but what a great summer it was beginning with our 28th annual Parade, followed by that yummy Pancake Breakfast and five over the top Concerts in the Park. October brings a Concert in the Chapel and in November the Veterans BBQ, hosted by the Museum, with some help from the BIIA. The finale for 2023 is the Snow Day and Tree lighting, the annual Holiday Parade and a great Holiday/Christmas Season.

Very soon you will be asked to renew your BIIA Membership. It is because of YOU we can accomplish our goals to continue to make our Island(s) a paradise. When you receive your annual billing you'll notice that the options have changed making it easier to donate. No matter what support level you are for 2023 I challenge you to increase your contribution by moving up a level for 2024.

As a reminder the North Bay Front benches will be replaced in October in a similar fashion as the benches on the South Bay Front were last Spring. The old benches will be taken to the City Yard and bench donors or recipients will be notified that their bench and or plaque is available for pick up. Plaques from the unclaimed benches will be held by the BIIA.

The Balboa Island Holiday Home Walking Tour, our annual event presented by the Balboa Island Improvement Association, returns on Sunday, December 10th from 11:00 am to 4:00 pm. This year we are celebrating 25 years and this event marks the perfect start to your holiday season on our picturesque island, occurring on the second Sunday in December. Explore eight beautifully decorated homes and cottages at your own pace, all surely to spark holiday cheer!

Tickets are $40.00 online at biia.org. They also will be available for purchase November 1st at the following Balboa Island stores: Balboa Island Museum, Blue Atlas Marketplace, Crown Meets Sea, Crush Clothing, all located on Marine Avenue. Off Island tickets can be purchased at Bliss Home Design on Pacific Coast Highway in CDM, Blue Springs Home and Crews Quarters Newport on 17th Street in Costa Mesa and Seaside Gallery & Goods on Tustin Avenue in Newport Beach.

Will Call Tickets will be available to purchase and pick up at the Balboa Island Museum located at 210 Marine Avenue, Balboa Island at 9:30am on the day of the Home Tour.

Be sure to visit all our shops on Marine and Agate Avenue for your holiday shopping and refreshments! Plus, this year the Holiday Market will return to the Royal Hen on Marine Avenue from 11:00 am to 3:00 pm.

To be a Home Tour Sponsor please visit our website at biia.org. To be a Docent please call 949-536-6500.

SANDCASTLES

Each year, on the last Saturday in July, there is a fierce competition that takes place on Balboa Island. The Balboa Island Improvement Association (BIIA) sponsors the annual Family Sandcastle Competition that is held on Ruby Beach, located on the North Bay Front of the island. Each year the castles and talent become more and more impressive. This year was no exception!

THANK YOU CROSSON FAMILY!

Amazing Concerts In The Park this Summer! Thank you to BIIA and organizer Jack Callahan for booking the exceptional talent!

Laura Scudder

1881 - 1959

"Way Ahead of Her Time"

Snack-food Entrepreneur, Inventor, Trailblazer Feted in Museum Exhibit

By PETE WEITZNER, Producer,
"Golden Age of Newport Harbor"

The Balboa Island Museum Newport Beach is composed of the stories of many remarkable people—from early developers Irvine and McFadden, to uber-celebs, Bogart and Wayne. There's the myriad industrialists like Brenand Argyros and the local stalwarts like Beek and Hershey. Among these and all the others, Laura Scudder would rank, well, right up there.

"She was way ahead of her time," Balboa Island Museum Newport Beach Executive Director Tiffany Pepys Hoey said. "But what Laura did would be remarkable in anytime." And now Laura Scudder's life is a most worthy addition to the Balboa Museum's permanent exhibits.

"I knew I was going to honor Laura Scudder with an exhibit, Pepys Hoey said. Just a matter of when."

Laura Scudder lived from 1881-1959. If the Laura Scudder story were only her accomplishments as a snack-food entrepreneur, inventor and trailblazing woman, that alone would be quite a story, and worthy of her own exhibit. Consider that the woman who'd go on to be known as "The Potato Chip Queen of the West," capturing more than 50% of the California market, also invented wax-paper, sealed packaging and sell-by dates – to extoll the freshness.

The Philadelphia native started out as a nurse in Trenton, New Jersey where she met husband Charles in the hospital. When they came West, with sparse resources, they managed to open the "Little Davenport Café" restaurant in Ukiah, an agricultural community in Northern California.

Laura's restaurant was by a courthouse and fave of local lawyers and judges, who encouraged the proprietress to study law. Of such modest means, Scudder studied law with borrowed books. She was not only admitted to the CA bar—first woman ever in Ukiah, California—she was also admitted to practice federal law. She'd do neither, using her legal training in business.

Scudder and her husband moved their business interests to working-class Monterey Park, and took up residence in La Habra Heights. A gas station was followed by the manufacturing business that would make her famous, snack foods led by potato chips.

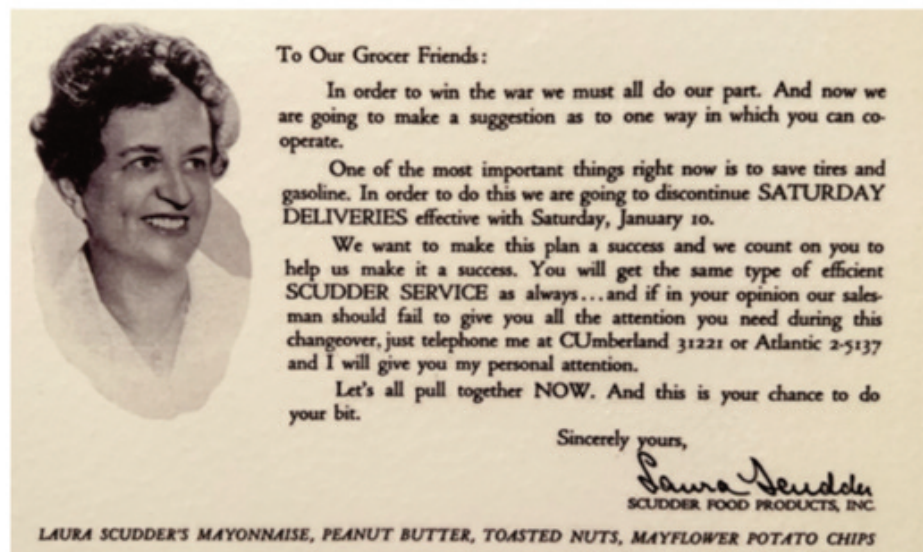

She'd add a second plant in Oakland and a third in Fresno, topping 1,000 employees. Scudder knew business, she also had a sense of fair play. She spurned the first offer for her empire, $9 million, when the suitor wouldn't guarantee jobs for her workforce, many of them women. And when the Depression-era male insurance agents wouldn't underwrite her delivery trucks, she found a female agent who would, and who ultimately insured her entire fleet.

"She was a pioneer, an instigator, a doer..." wrote Joseph R. Blackstock, a former president of the Monterey Park Historical Society.

Laura Scudder had a flair for style, often adorned in wide, flat-brimmed hats. And she was a woman of varied talents, a poet, columnist—the Laura Scudder archives are kept at Chapman University in Orange—and she was an early proponent of marketing and advertising, for her snack foods, and later for the Allied cause in World War II.

As for her crunchy-fresh Mayflower potato chips, she'd use the ads to extoll their virtues.

'Grocer Friends,
let's all pull together NOW.
This is your chance to do your bit'

— Laura Scudder

Scudder's company sponsored early 50s TV shows like "The Lawrence Welk Show" and "Annie Oakley." Here's a few samples, the latter seems to star good ol' Captain Stubing, Gavin MacLeod <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=EYzbv8fDaAo> <https://www.efootage.com/videos/86722/laura-scudders-chip-commercial-1960s>

Laura ultimately sold her business in 1957 to Signal Oil & Gas of Signal Hill, securing those job guarantees for her workforce. Several sales later in 1987, now Anaheim-based Laura Scudder, Inc. brought over $100 million.

But she was so more than a success in industry, literally and figuratively larger than life.

Consider her patriotism. She donated her snack foods to the troops and in billboards and newspaper ads encouraged others to do their part. She suspended Saturday deliveries at her company to conserve gasoline, grew her own victory garden at her La Habra Heights home.

Grandson John Scudder—nearly a lifelong North Bayfront resident in the home his relatives built and where Laura would visit—didn't know his grandmother long. Laura passed when John was 12. In a YouTube video he fondly recalled taking his "Madre" to lunch in the place where she reigned supreme, Monterey Park.

"We went to a real swanky restaurant and she was very well known, John Scudder said. She was over 70 years old and we sat there having hamburgers. So sweet."

How sweet? Scudder says his loving business woman grand mastered their fancy-restaurant order to hamburgers, knowing full well that 10-year-old John was treating and holding a whole five dollars.

"Most people know her (Laura) for potato chips and peanut butter...but to me she was my grandmother and a grandmother I loved very much," Scudder said.

John Scudder took the opportunity to show that love in the late 80s, when he gathered up all the photos and letters in the attic that he could find to produce the acclaimed documentary "Laura," which ultimately ran on the PBS affiliate, KOCE-TV.

"I felt it was an important story literally fading away," Scudder told The Orange County Register upon the documentary's premier.

John Scudder was on a humanitarian trip to Ukraine and Poland as we were sending this story to press. We got to talk briefly and I asked if he felt he'd inherited any of his grandmother's traits.

"I have her compassion. I don't have her strength, John said. Men would roll a delivery truck and she'd hire them back...but say 'don't roll another truck.' They called her Mrs. Scudder, and when I interviewed them for the film, their eyes would well up."

John added that he also made the documentary for his father, who'd recently passed and worked for Laura since he was 12, starting out peeling potatoes. Years earlier on completing the film, Scudder told the LA Times what he learned about his grandmother. "I thought I knew her story pretty well, he said. But I really didn't. It's a motivational story, about hard times, and inspiring to both men and women." The same can be said of the new Laura Scudder exhibit at the Balboa Island Museum Newport Beach. Check it out. Fall on Marine

by Cynthia Shafer,
President - Balboa Island Merchant's Association

There is a great quote from F. Scott Fitzgerald,
"Life starts all over again when it gets crisp in the fall"

It certainly feels like life starts over again on Marine as the summer crowds thin out and our locals can come down to Marine Ave and enjoy the many great new places that have opened.

At 332 Marine right by the bridge David Guerin has opened Natur'all a crystal and metaphysical store and adds some welcomed good energy at the start of Marine.

Stop by and meet David and he will help you choose from his amazing selection of crystals, candles, beautiful stones and so much more for your health and well-being. He offers individual healing sessions by appointment as well.

Natur'all has a welcoming vibe

Toastique, a welcome and popular addition to the island

Toastique has opened at the corner of Marine and Balboa serving fresh juices, bowls and various toast creations. The Toastique Balboa Island Team of Lyndon & Rhea Baptiste and Tony and Lesley Capolino send this message

"We're overwhelmed with gratitude!"

Your smiles, your visits and your enthusiasm have made our launch truly special. As Newport Beach and Balboa Island residents, we are honored to have the opportunity to serve delicious, healthy and wholesome eats to our community.

We are a family-owned business and we take pride in the fact that all of our produce and bread are locally sourced. Stay toasty!"

At 218 Marine Keri Ingvarsson has opened Gen Art. Gen Art opened in NYC in 1993 with a mission to support the best pop artists, emerging fashion designers and indie films. From 1998 through 2015 they opened outposts in Los Angeles, Miami, Chicago,

Gen Art owner, Keri Ingvarsson

Austin, Park City and San Fran. In 2023 they decided to open in Balboa Island. Their art gallery plans to create community events, including children's and adult art classes, fashion shows, and mini art film festivals.

They plan to exhibit over 65 blue chip modern pop artists and opened with their top 8 best sellers, all drawn from SoCal and Keri's native NYC.

Pop artists from SoCal and NYC available at Gen Art

MLN owner Lydie Dubois

Directly next door at 218½, the French husband and wife team Lydie and Nicholas Dubois have opened MLN Studio. They specialize in suspension Pilates and are here to share their vision of health, nutrition and well being. They offer private and group sessions as well as courses for teens. Stop by to meet them and see how they can help you to look and feel your best.

Thursday nights come join the locals as they gather at The Royal Hen at 311 Marine to share stories, laughter and lots of wine.

Make sure to visit The Balboa Island Museum, voted once again as Best Museum of The Southland 2023. Tickets are now available for The Denim and Diamonds Museum fundraiser on November 19 at The Fun Zone.

B I I A

M E M B E R S H I P

by Larry Kallestad

Well, the Summer of '23 is past and suddenly finding parking on the Island is not as tough. What a summer it was, with the Parade kicking it off in a spectacular way. Thank you Jack Callahan and Gail Vasterling for guiding the up to forty or so volunteers who helped you present such a crowd pleasing event the Island always looks forward to. It will be pretty hard to top the enjoyment the Parade viewers experienced this past June 4th.

As we approach the end of 2023, we once again will be inviting you who are BIIA members in 2023, to join the Association for 2024. As was our procedure last year in November, the members of 2023 will be sent an email inviting them to re-join. The invitation is also extended to those of you who were not members in 2023, but want to help support all the activities the Association brings to the Island community. At this point I would suggest you save the Membership Application Envelope in this copy of the Island Bridge, and use it to join for 2024. To shortcut the time for filling it out, if you were a member in 2023 and your information is the same as it was then, go to the Address Line and write "Same as 2023". We will take care of the rest.

You can join online at biia.org. Click on the lower black rectangle box (credit card portion) and complete the membership information form, and then click on the black rectangle at the bottom which will take you to the Credit Card payment section. Click on the colored "Donate" button having the amount level you wish as your donation toward membership. The Balboa Island Improvement Association being a "Not for Profit" designated organization, so your donation toward membership is not tax deductible.

The BIIA has been in existence since 1919. Yes, well over 100 years. It has always been a Not for Profit volunteer situation where no one is paid to do the any of the Association projects or functions. All of the funds coming to the Association are used only for the benefit of the community we serve.

The satisfaction you receive by joining, is that you are doing your part to keep the Association going, and helping to continue making our Island a more enjoyable place.

Financial support is important but we also encourage you to volunteer to help with the projects and functions that come about. Doing your part to help make those things happen is personally rewarding when you see how much your neighbors enjoy what you have accomplished.

The total Membership at the time of this writing is 685 Memberships for 2023. We sincerely appreciate those who continue to support the Association year after year. You are the backbone of the successes of our mission, to constantly make the Island life, the best it can be. We encourage those who have not had the chance to join in that mission, to become members both financially and personally. Get involved in the fun!

THANK YOU!

Larry
